- ② The aged needs health, financial support, sense of identity because they have become older and need people to take care of them and need to look after there health, make sure there eating what's good for them making sure that they keep checking at the doctors. The financial support is a bit hard because the ~~old~~ elderly have stoped working and its a bit hard for them to work when they have gotten older. It's hard for the elderly because they can't work because they have retired and mostly stay at home and look after what they eat and what they do.

Sense of identity is hard for the aged because they have changed their life because the older they get their life changes by when they get older they intend to stay at home more and better do what they use to like doing before. The aged feel that they have lost their identity because they don't see people as much as they use to and lost in contact with their friends.

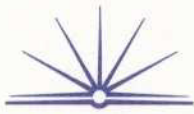

© The two groups are the aged and the homeless. The homeless needs are to be looked after, having food, water ~~shelter~~ shelter, clothes and ~~also~~ also the feeling of being needed and to be loved. Homeless people need to be looked after and taken care of each other, they need shelter and support to feel that they have the power to do it. The homeless need to be taken into a home and to be taught how to own and look after your home.

The aged need to rearrange the house to suit their living and to make sure that they all have the feeling of safety and comfort at home. The aged need to feel that they are feeling safe by loved ones and that they feel loved and supported by loved ones, family, friends etc, know that there are people that care about them and want the best for them and want them to have a good life ahead.

The aged and the homeless needs to be supported by society and to help each other and themselves.

They need their loved ones to help them and give them courage to change their life.

The Homeless need to get up on their feet and get a job and support themselves than they won't be homeless and would be able to buy a house and have a roof over their head.
