

16 a) Two factors that affect access to services for the socioeconomically disadvantaged may include; location and employment. These two factors can be very major when faced with socio-economic issues. This may lead to the access to ~~the~~ services being affected. Location may reduce the services available and the access to these services and employment may lead to the access to services being interrupted by other needs and priorities.

b) Elderly peoples security and safety needs are met by housing. This may be for various reasons. The security and safety needs may be the same or similar to say ~~a~~ rural families though these two groups may have different needs.

Rural families don't have a lot around them hence 'rural'. So they may feel insecure or unsafe in this environment, although this is the environment they have chosen to live in. The fact is that they just simply do not have the resources and services in the rural area. Elderly on the other hand may have their security and safety needs met by housing as the world they know today may be very different to the older days. Elderly people do not have the same needs as most people in other groups. &

These two groups may both have needs met through housing but in entirely different ways. The two groups have very different needs and their needs differ majorly.
