

Sydney is a major city on the east coast of New South Wales, Australia.

It has a population of about 4,000,000.

Christchurch is a main city located on the east of New Zealand's southern Island and has an approximate population of 300,000. Clearly evident differences between the two are population, growing urban areas and urban dynamics, and its results.

Sydney is ~~a major~~ ~~head~~ home to many headquarters, Transnational Corporations (TNCs), Non-government organisations (NGOs) and is the head of communication, financial and social links.

Sydney is expected to continue to grow westwardly. ~~Above~~ To Sydney's north is Newcastle and to the south, Wollongong. Both themselves are major cities but with the growing urban areas in Sydney, they may be overlapped by Sydney. Urban pull factors are pushing more rural-urban migration. Sydney must accommodate for these people.

Sydney is a city that has links with other parts of the world. For example trade links with USA.
