

4) The difference between Liquid crystal display
LCD monitor and color ray tube monitor
(1) is that the LCD is thin on light and the CRT are big and bulky also LCD use liquid to display images as a CRT use ~~point~~ which are produced from the rear of the monitor.

(11) The difference between cell based and path panel creation is cell based creation constructs on the cell of the monitor and the cell are changed to create an creation were as path based focus on the path of the monitor and the creation is changed as the path are changed.

(a) b)

(11) DID NOT ATTEMPT

C) Collecting - In order to collect the advertisement they are sent by fax, email or post. Once the advertisement have been received the data is collected. When collecting data it is important to make sure it is accurate and that it consist of all the appropriate information to make the ad worthwhile. The problems which can occur could be that fax may distort an image or word but every thing else is all right ~~accept for email that may be a problem~~

ORGANISING - In order to organ the ad in to appropriate groups this may be difficult as the person conducting the ad may be advertising un. dress and skirts but he may also sell books but he will be placed in the women cloth category of ad.

Display. This is a major issue considering that many users access the website using dial up and long - distance phone calls which means dial up is slow and long distance is expensive, therefore advertisement must be made and saved in appropriate file types which can be easily and quickly uploaded. For example a picture that is saved as a Bit map will take longer than if the same picture was saved as a JPEG as Bit map file size is larger than a JPEG so all files such as graphics must be saved using smaller file types to save time for those users who are on dial up and are making long ~~distance~~ long distance phone calls. Based on content, display of content is extremely important and the fact that the site has many ads means the

are many graphics and all these graphics take time to load.