

Question 13

(b) (i)

Albert Speer was in the Nazi party not as just a person, he was second in charge to Adolf Hitler who was the undisputed leader. Albert was highested by Hitler to be his architect who would design most of Hitler plans and put them into practice because ~~who loved~~ Hitler who loved extra architecture didn't have the ability to do it himself.

Albert Speer would be Hitler's closest friend who travelled almost everywhere Hitler looking for new places to design.

Speer's greatest ~~most~~ piece as an architect was to the Nuremberg which ^{he} designed and put into practice it was built in 1934, which Albert was also placed in the role of Military armory which ^{he} would control the weapon distribution throughout the country. Speer was not like Hitler he unlike others stood up to him not with great success. He believed Hitler was making huge mistakes when he decided to blow everything up when the war was lost.

Speer was eventually caught up in the falling down of the Nazi party, ^{and} was eventually put in jail for ^{his} involvement which ^{he} took with little fuss.